Climb the classic fluted slopes of Alpamayo's (5,917m/19,412ft) Southwest Face, the prize of Peru's Cordillera Blanca peaks. Often referred to as the most beautiful mountain in the world, Alpamayo provides spectacular, technical climbing for any committed alpinist. Complete the expedition with an ascent of the nearby Quitaraju (6,036m/19,803ft) and optional add-on Artesonraju (6,025m/19,767ft).

HISTORY

Nevado Alpamayo, as it's more correctly known, is situated in Peru's Cordillera Blanca. With twenty-nine summits over 6,000m/19,500ft, the Cordillera Blanca forms but a small part of the Andes chain, located down the entire western side of South America. Alpamayo doesn't quite reach that rounded figure of 6,000m but makes up for its relative shortfall in height with its aesthetic beauty.

The first attempt on Alpamayo's summit was in 1948 by a Swiss expedition. Climbing by way of the heavily corniced North Ridge, the three climbers came within sight of the virgin summit when a large cornice broke under them and they were carried down the precipitous Northwest Face. By some amazing piece of good fortune, the three were neither buried nor injured by the 200m/650ft fall and they were able to make an 'orderly retreat' from the mountain.

In 1957, a German expedition led by Günter Hauser, comprising of some of Germany's strongest climbers succeeded in climbing Alpamayo via its South Ridge. Although no less steep, nor less dangerous than the North Ridge, this ridge had the tremendous advantage of leading directly to the higher South Summit.

Summit day consists of 500m/1,650ft of perfect two-tooled ice and névé (styrofoam-like snow) on a flawlessly fluted face. A climber knows they are close to reaching the top when they begin to see light through the face from the other side.

EXPEDITION OVERVIEW

After meeting in Lima, we drive north to Huaraz and repack the expedition gear. This town and its higher elevation allow us to further acclimatise and prepare for the challenges ahead.

▲ Climbers move through spectacular terrain towards High Camp. Photo: Dean Staples

We then drive north to the Santa Cruz Valley, where we begin our trek into Base Camp. With the bulk of our gear on pack animals, we gradually acclimatise as we ascend the valley beneath some of the famous peaks of the Cordillera Blanca—Artesonraju, the enormous Santa Cruz and the very imposing pyramid of Quitaraju.

We establish a Base Camp in a small valley right beneath Quitaraju (6,036m/19,803ft) and Alpamayo (5,917m/19,412ft) itself and then spend several days establishing an Advanced Base Camp on the col between the two peaks. Depending on conditions on the mountain, we can choose from a variety of routes, such as the Ferrari Route or the Italian Route. On our climb of the Ferrari Route, we traverse a gentle glacier to the base of the route, soon reaching 45-degree slopes before crossing a bergschrund and then ascending the sharply fluted snow and ice face directly to the summit. We enjoy 400m /1,300ft of challenging ground, much of it at a sustained 60-degrees of mixed ice and snow. The final pitches are even steeper and provide an exciting finish to one of the world's finest ice face routes.

The following day we climb the North Face of Quitaraju, which sits to the Southwest of High Camp. We cross the glacier to the start of the route, which is notably longer than Alpamayo, but not as steep, providing an enjoyable, sustained ice and snow climb through to the summit.

PREREQUISITE EXPERIENCE

This expedition is advanced in nature. Due to the altitude and the technical nature of the climbing, prospective members should have experience with multi-pitch climbing (rock or ice), be comfortable following Grade 4 ice climbs and have climbed at altitude.

You will also need to be physically fit, have strong mental stamina and be capable of strenuous exercise for several days' duration. Expedition members can expect to exert themselves for about six hours per day and be capable of carrying a 20kg/45lb pack.

Climbing at altitude affects people differently but most climbers notice a lower performance rate than normal. Our climbing days are mostly short to accommodate this and vital rest days are usually welcomed! Our graduated acclimatisation program allows you to progressively consolidate your fitness.

TEAM SIZE

This expedition operates at a guide-to-client ratio of 1:2 and will have a maximum size of 8 members and 4 guides.

ITINERARY

EXPEDITION DATES

Alpamayo and Quitaraju Expedition:
June 30 to July 18, 2025

Artesonraju Add On: July 19–24, 2025

ITINERARY

Following is an ideal itinerary for the expedition:

Day 1	Arrive Lima, Peru
Day 2	First class seat on a tourist bus, Lima to Huaraz
Day 3	Acclimatisation day in Huaraz, rock climbing at Los Olivivos crags
Day 4	Day hike to Macashca Hills
Day 5	Day hike Pitec to Laguna Churup
Day 6	Huaraz to Vallunaraju, hike to Morena Camp
Day 7	Climbing instruction, overnight at Morena Camp
Day 8	Vallunaraju climb, return to Huaraz
Day 9	Rest day
Day 10	Drive Huaraz to Cashapampa, trek to Llama Corral, camp

Day 11	Trek to Alpamayo Base Camp
Day 12	Climb to Moraine Camp
Day 13	Climb to High Camp
Day 14	Summit day, return to High Camp
Day 15	Climb Quitaraju or contingency/bad weather or rest day
Day 16	Return to Base Camp
Day 17	Return to Cashapampa and Huaraz (or move to Artesonraju Base Camp if continuing on the Artesonraju Extension)
Day 18	Transfer back to Lima
Day 19	Trip ends, depart Lima

DETAILED ITINERARY

Day 1

Arrive in Lima and transfer to your hotel. Gear checks and welcome dinner with the climbing team.

Day 2

We travel by tourist bus in a first class seat from Lima to Huaraz (7–8 hours). We opt for the seats on the tourist bus over a private minivan transfer, as the drivers are safer and the vehicle is more comfortable. We stay at a comfortable hotel in Huaraz.

Day 3

We spend a day in Huaraz to acclimatise to our new altitude of 3,100m/10,170ft. We will also use this day to refresh our rock climbing skills at the local Los Olivivos crags.

Day 4

We undertake a day hike to the Macashca Hills near Huaraz before returning to overnight at our Huaraz hotel. Our hike takes us on an enjoyable climb up into the hills directly behind Huaraz. The trip starts with a short car journey—around half an hour into the Macashca Valley.

We initially walk up quite steeply for around 1 hour on a grassy hillside before reaching a wide open grassy ridge which we follow easily to a saddle at 4,200m/13,780ft. From the ridge, there are fantastic views over Huaraz across to the snow-capped peaks of the Cordillera Blanca, Peru's highest mountain, Huascarán, and the Cordillera Negra. The walk then descends a long way with open views all the way to finish in Huaraz around 5 hours later.

Day 5

We take a car from Huaraz to Pitec, driving through the attractive farming settlements of Unchus and Llupa (1½ hours' drive). From Pitec (3,850m/12,630ft), there is a steady climb on a good path with views to Laguna Churup (4,440m/14,565ft), a beautiful turquoise mountain lake below Nevada Churup (5,493m/18,020ft). The final 100m/330ft to the lake is up a steep rock gully. We allow 4–5 hours for this acclimatisation walk, overnighting back at the Huaraz hotel.

Day 6

Next in our sights is Vallunaraju and we begin by driving 90 minutes from Huaraz to the Llaca Valley. From here we climb steeply up a ridge for 2 to 3 hours to Morena Camp (5,130m/16,830ft).

Day 7

Today is a climbing instruction day, conducted at approximately 5,300m/17,400ft before descending back to Morena Camp.

Day 8

We set out early for our Vallunaraju summit climb (5,686m/18,655ft), which takes around 10 hours up and back to Llaca Valley. We then return to Huaraz by car and overnight at our Huaraz hotel.

Day 9

A rest day Huaraz! A time to sleep in, wash clothes and of course, eat!

Day 10

We drive 2½ hours from Huaraz to the village of Cashapampa (2,090m/6,857ft) where we meet our donkey drivers. Approaching Cashapampa, we have our first view of Santa Cruz, the huge pyramid-shaped mountain that gives the trekking circuit its name.

We climb up through the Santa Cruz Valley, following the river. The first 2 hours can be quite hard. We are in a steep-sided river gorge and are climbing continuously so if the sun is out it is hot in the gorge. But later, the valley opens out onto grassland and it is flatter and cooler as we approach our first camp. We camp near the river at Llama Corral (3,750m/12,303ft) after around 4–5 hours.

Day 11

This is also a short day and you'll probably be at Alpamayo Base Camp for lunch, to then enjoy a rest in the afternoon. During the walk up the valley, the twin peaks of Quitaraju and the famous Alpamayo come into view. We walk past two lakes; first the small Ichiccocha and then the larger Jatuncocha. We then climb 40 minutes on a steep zig-zag path to enter the Quebrada Arhuaycocha and continue with a relaxed hike up the valley to Alpamayo Base Camp (4,250m/13,943ft) after around 4–5 hours.

Day 12

Today we move 2–3 hours up to Moraine Camp (5,000m/16,400ft). This is a testing climb on moraine and some slippery rock, up until we reach Moraine Camp at the end of the glacier.

Day 13

Next we progress to High Camp (5,450m/17,880ft). We climb up an average 45-degree ice gully to reach the bottom of an ice cliff. In some years, we must ascend up to 150m/500ft of 70-degree ice to reach the top of an ice cliff. We may fix ropes on this section. High Camp is situated at the top of the ice cliff between Alpamayo and should take around 4–5 hours to reach.

Day 14

We leave camp early and climb on sometimes steep snow slopes for about an hour to a bergschrund at the bottom of the Southwest Face. At times there are crevasses to negotiate. The climb on the Southwest Face to the summit is steep and technical, with mixed good snow and hard ice. The climb to the summit takes about 5 hours. The descent is by the same route and takes 9 rappels. We return to sleep at High Camp, with the whole day taking approximately 8–9 hours. With an early start and early arrival back at High Camp, there is the option to descend to Base Camp on the same day also.

Day 15

Climb Quitaraju (6,036m/19,803ft), an adjacent peak offering similar technical climbing to Alpamayo. Otherwise contingency/bad weather or rest day.

Day 16

Today we return to Base Camp. It is necessary to do a rappel of around 150m/500ft close to High Camp to descend the ice cliff. The last 1½ hours to the camp is on steep and slippery rock and the day should take around 5–6 hours in total.

Day 17

We enjoy a long but easy walk down the Quebrada Santa Cruz to Cashapampa, taking 6–7 hours. Our vehicle will be waiting in Cashapampa to return us to Huaraz and our comfortable hotel.

Alternatively, join our Artesonraju add-on itinerary—see Artesonraju Extension section for more details.

Day 18

Transfer back to Lima. Flights home in the evening or stay in a Lima hotel.

Day 19

Transfer to airport for flights home for those that didn't depart on prior evening.

ARTESONRAJU EXTENSION

An ascent of Artesonraju (6,025m/19,767ft) can turn our 19-day Alpamayo programme into a fantastic 25-day expedition to include one of the world's most recognisable summits.

Artesonraju, made famous in the Paramount Pictures logo, is a beautiful pyramidal peak situated between the Santa Cruz and Paron Valleys. The climbing is more technical than Alpamayo with some pitches up to 60–80 degrees. Climbers must be totally confident using two technical ice tools and should have climbed, and be confident climbing, long (200m/650ft+) steep technical ice walls.

The cost of the add-on depends on how many people join the Artesonraju extension. It is guided at a 1:2 ratio and your guide(s) from the Alpamayo programme will accompany you. The cost is inclusive of the Adventure Consultants Western guide continuing with you on Artesonraju.

In previous years, we have offered an extension itinerary to climb Huascaran, the highest peak in Peru. However, conditions have been deteriorating, making the climb more dangerous and with a lesser chance of success. Hence, we are now offering Artesonraju as an add-on to Alpamayo.

Following is an ideal itinerary for our Artesonraju Add On, starting on July 19-24:

Day 1	Move to Artesonraju Base Camp
Day 2	Rest day in Base Camp
Day 3	Climb to Moraine Camp
Day 4	Climb to High Camp
Day 5	Climb Artesonraju, return to Base Camp
Day 6	Contingency/bad weather day
Day 7	Return to Huaraz
Day 8	Transfer to Lima
Day 9	Trip ends, depart Lima

THE ADVANTAGES OF CLIMBING WITH ADVENTURE CONSULTANTS

Adventure Consultants is renowned for the quality of its service and strategy applied to high altitude expedition climbing. Our reputation is attributed to meticulous planning and experienced logistics coordination. We have a philosophy of investing in every expedition to offer our climbers the best possible chance of success.

We employ strong and specialised Expedition Leaders and support staff, who are some of the most pre-eminent in the industry. We pride ourselves on operating with small teams, the best back-up and support available. This includes nutritious and ample quantities of food, comfortable Base Camp facilities, reliable communications systems and the necessary medical back up.

Many of our expedition members come to us because they have seen us in action on a previous trip and decide to opt for our level of service and proven experience. Others return because they know we do our very best to make expeditions safe and successful.

VISAS

Generally, entry visas are not required for travellers staying less than three months in Peru, but please check with your travel agent.

FLIGHT INFORMATION

Flight arrangements should be scheduled so that you arrive in Lima on the first scheduled day of the trip, or earlier if you want some time to explore the city. The morning of the trip's second day, you will take a private bus from Lima to Huaraz.

At the end of the trip, we are able to drive to Lima and generally depart from Lima on international flights on the same day, as most flights leave from Lima in the evening.

COMMUNICATIONS

The expedition will be equipped with portable Thuraya satellite phone systems for the duration of the expedition in order to provide reliable email and voice communication for business, media or personal use. Limited satellite phone time can be purchased at the rate of US$3 per minute. Please contact our office for details.

FOOD

During the expedition, you will enjoy high quality 'Western' food as well as popular local dishes. One of the highlights of this expedition is the high-quality meals that are prepared by our local staff. Please indicate any specific dietary requirements that you may have on your application form. For special diets such as vegan and gluten/dairy free, we will call you to discuss your needs and how this will work in the group cooking situation. If your dietary requirements are especially strict, you are advised to bring a sufficient supply of your required food types with you to ensure you are provided for.

EQUIPMENT LIST & REFERENCE NOTES

Expedition members will be sent a list detailing all the necessary clothing and equipment to be individually procured, contained within a set of Expedition Reference Notes. These notes provide extensive information on everything from suggestions of what type of camera to bring to training advice for your expedition preparation.

MEDICAL EXAMINATION & INSURANCE

Expedition members will be provided with a medical questionnaire by the expedition doctor and asked to visit their family physician to receive a full medical examination. This information will be sighted only by our medical adviser and the Expedition Leader and treated with full confidentiality. Advice on immunisations will be provided at this time.
